IMPORTANT DECISIONS BY CHIEF JUSTICE MILLS

Last Saturday afternoon in chambers, Chief Justice William J. Mills gave his decision in the following two cases:

Peter Roth vs. Placita Ranch Co. et als, San Miguel county, No. 6453. Decree in favor of the plaintiff. This decree quieted title to a piece of land running from Eighth street to the Mora road, just north of St. Anthony's Sanitarium, to the property of Peter Roth. The city of Las Vegas was one of the defendants in this case, claiming that a road ran through it, but the referee, Charles W. G. Ward, found that the road had not been rightfully dedicated, and found the issues in favor of Roth, and to his report no exceptions were taken, so the court signed the decree in favor of the plaintiff.

The other case was that of the Roy Land and Live Stock Co. vs. Francisco Sanchez y Medina, Mora county, No. 1785. Ranker and Lucas were attorneys for the plaintiff, and L. C. Ilfeld for the defendant. The court granted a permanent injunction restraining the defendant from cutting timber on lands belonging to the defendant, and from driving, pasturing, and grazing, sheep, cattle or horses on the lands described in the complaint, comprising about 1,500 or 1,600 acres.

Benj. Strickfadden, whose company, the Nashville Harvester Co., sold to G. J. Fredericks the six-seated automobile which will be used on the daily line between this city and Santa Rosa, will accompany the latter on a trial trip over the route. The start will be made from this city tomorrow morning at 4 o'clock and it is expected that the trip there and back will have been made by nightfall. The stage line will likely be in operation by the first of the month.

On Thursday evening, July 29, Captain Chas. A. Reynolds will deliver a lecture at the Duncan on "The Truth about the Philippines." Capt. Reynolds was a former governor of the province of Alban in the Philippines, and so is peculiarly adapted to lecture on this subject.

LABOR LEADERS ENGAGE IN BITTER VERBAL BATTLE

Denver, July 26.—In his annual report, read today, J. C. Lowney, member of the executive board of the Federation of Miners, stated that P. J. Flynn and his adherents were enemies of organized labor. BROKEN BACK CAUSES DEATH OF RAILROADER

John Quincy Weygandt, foreman of the Santa Fe railway coal chutes at Talban, on the Belen cut-off, died at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the company's hospital northwest of the city, from injuries received July 7, while in the discharge of his duties. The case of Weygandt, according to the attending physician, was one of the most remarkable on record, in that although his back was broken, his left arm dislocated in three places and he being otherwise frightfully mangled, the injured man lived over three weeks. From the first no hope was held out for his recovery, his death being only a question of time.

At the time of the accident, Weygandt was at work at the coal chutes, when he slipped and fell across the shafting used to hoist and lower the machinery at the chutes. Before he was extricated he suffered the fatal injuries above described. He was at once placed aboard a special train and taken to St. Joseph's hospital at Albuquerque, and later was brought to the company hospital here.

The deceased, who was unmarried, was a native of Ritchey, Mo., and was 28 years old. He had been a resident of the territory three years, and had a homestead near Talban. At the time he was injured he had been in the employ of the railroad company about four months. He is survived by three brothers and four sisters. A brother, V. B. Weygandt, and a sister, Mrs. W. H. Abury, reached Las Vegas last Monday from Ritchey, Mo., to be with him, as did also another sister, Mrs. Frank Wright of Long Beach, Calif. These three were at the bedside when the end came together with Mrs. J. B. Pryor, another sister of Talban.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of J. C. Johnson & Son, where it was prepared for shipment, and today on No. 2, accompanied by the brothers and two sisters, was sent to Sarcoxie, Mo., for burial.

SMALL BOY IS LOCKED UP IN OPERA HOUSE

Early Saturday morning, following The Optic's ball in the Duncan opera house, a small boy who had gone to sleep in the gallery, was locked up when the theatre was closed for the night. He awakened shortly afterwards and set up a wall that attracted the attention of passersby. Incidentally the night member of the police force, when he heard that the commotion was caused by only a boy who had been locked up in the theatre, hastened to the scene, arriving in about two minutes. A key was procured and the juvenile prisoner released.

About noon yesterday lightning struck a Western Union telegraph pole near the Lehmann lunch stand, but no damage was done.

FORMER LAS VEGAN SPENDS DAY IN CITY

S. K. Woodworth, a prominent lawyer of San Diego, Calif., who as a boy grew to manhood in this city, was a visitor here today, the guest of his sister, Mrs. S. T. Kline. However, Mr. Woodworth's visit was the result of a sad accident, which occurred a few days ago at La Jolla, a suburb of San Diego.

While spending his honeymoon with Mr. Woodworth and family, George Glick Orr and his bride, who was Miss Florence Guerrier, of Atchison, Kan., was drowned while bathing in the surf. The young man, one of the leading attorneys of the Sunflower state, was swept to sea by a huge breaker in the presence of his bride of but a few weeks, and although life savers attempted to rescue him he was caught by the undertow and carried far out of reach.

As there was scant hope of his body ever being recovered, Mr. Woodworth started with the grief-stricken wife, who is his niece, for her home in Atchison, where he believed the change of scene might prevent a complete mental and physical collapse, threatened as a result of her husband's untimely death.

The two arrived in Las Vegas last night on No. 4, when Mr. Woodworth received a telegram that Mr. Orr's body had been washed ashore. This news was a great relief to the grief-stricken widow, whose wish was that Mr. Woodworth wait here and meet the body which is expected to pass through on No. 3 tonight, and accompany it on to Atchison, where burial will take place.

Mr. Orr was a grandson of George Glick, the first governor of Kansas. His bride is a member of one of the most aristocratic families of Kansas, a beautiful and accomplished young woman.

Leo F. Boydston and party of fishermen from this city made a big catch of the finny tribe at Hand's lake yesterday, among the number a bass which tipped the beam at over five pounds.
